

Contents

List of Illustrations ix

Acknowledgments xi

INTRODUCTION: On Sensibility, the Sensible Body, and the Frontiers of Literature and Medicine I

PART I The Making of the Sensible Body

1 Constructing a Vital Property: The New Physiology and Psycho-Philosophy of Sensibility 13

2 Sensibility and the Philosophical Medicine of the 1750s–1770s 43

3 The Medicalization of Enlightenment 80

PART II Narrating the Sensible Body

4 The Novel of Sensibility before 1750 111

5 Organic Sensibility in Diderot's Theory and Practice of Fiction 152

6 The Moral Hygiene of Sensibility: Rousseau and Tissot 182

7 Moral Anthropology: Sensibility and the New Biology of Enlightenment 225

8 Sensibility, Anthropology, and Libertinage in Laclos and Sade 258

CONCLUSION: Sensibility in the Aftermath of the Enlightenment 293

Notes 303

Bibliography 359

Index 381