

Contents

PREFACE	5	Longines pocket chronographs and counters in the twentieth century	75
EPIGRAPH	7	Wrist-chronographs	80
INTRODUCTION	9	From one scale to another	84
The blessing of serial numbers	13
The watch, at the center of it all	16	THE ACCURACY OF TIME	87
		Not any old watch can be a chronometer!	90
		Longines chronometers	93
PART 1		Accuracy on the wrist	100
THE TIME IN YOUR POCKET	21	Tools and their masters	103
The comptoir era 1832–1866	23
1867 – The birth of Longines	25	AVIATORS, SOLDIERS, DIVERS: AHEAD OF THEIR TIME	107
The first Longines watches	28	The Second-Setting Watch (1927) and The New Secwond-Setting Watch (1936)	110
Recognition from the Universal Exhibitions	34	The Lindbergh Hour Angle Watch	114
Richly decorated models	37	Aviation instruments, watches, and chronographs from the 1930s	118
Striking watches	42	The Majetek, for the Czechoslovakian Air Force, 1935	122
THE TIME ON YOUR WRIST	45	The A-7, for the American military, 1935	125
The challenge of miniaturisation, or the era of the ladies' watch	52	Watches from the Second World War	126
The first shaped wristwatches	59	From 1959: diving into fresh waters	131
The challenge of resistance	66	The arrival of commercial aviation	133
MEASURING TIME	69	CHANGING TIMES: FROM AUTOMATIC TO QUARTZ	135
Chronographs and chronometers: know the difference	72	End of the war: the first automatic watches	140
1878: the beginnings of Longines involvement in sports timing	72

The quartz adventure: a new direction for watchmaking	142	– PART 2 –
An aside in the development of quartz technology: Ultra-Chron	145	THE LONGINES COLLECTIONS	207
1969 – The first quartz movement designed for the wristwatch	146	– PART 3 –
The digital display revolution	149	LONGINES MILESTONES	217
The challenge of slimming down	152
More than precise: Very High Precision	155
THE TIME OF THE COLLECTIONS	159
Conquest (1954)	164
Silver Arrow (1956)	169
Flagship (1957)	170
Jamboree (1959)	174
Admiral (1965)	175
Changing times (1970s and 1980s)	177
Immersed in a rich heritage	178
THE TIME OF CONTEMPORARY ELEGANCE	181
Exceptional ladies' jewellery watches	185
The minimalist years	188
The Italian art de vivre	192
For horse lovers	198
Mechanical watches: the revival (from the 2000s)	200
CONCLUSION	204		