

THE RISE AND FALL OF URBAN ECONOMIES

Lessons from San Francisco and Los Angeles

Michael Storper,
Thomas Kemeny,
Naji Philip Makarem,
and Taner Osman

Stanford Business Books
An Imprint of Stanford University Press
Stanford, California

Contents

	List of Figures, Maps, and Tables	xi
	Acknowledgments	xv
1	The Divergent Development of Urban Regions	1
2	Divergent Development: The Conceptual Challenge	15
3	The Motor of Divergence: High-Wage or Low-Wage Specialization	29
4	The Role of Labor in Divergence: Quality of Workers or Quality of Jobs?	51
5	Economic Specialization: Pathways to Change	75
6	Economic Development Policies: Their Role in Economic Divergence	111
7	Beliefs and Worldviews in Economic Development: To Which Club Do We Belong?	138
8	Seeing the Landscape: The Relational Infrastructure of Regions	169
9	Connecting the Dots: What Caused Divergence?	193

10	Shaping Economic Development: Policies and Strategies	209
11	Improving Analysis of Urban Regions: Methods and Models	228
	Notes	241
	Works Cited	261
	Index	285