

Contents

Introduction	ix
1. The Catholic Church and the Other Religions	1
The Second Vatican Council	2
John Paul II	4
The Asian Churches	5
Pluralist Theologies	8
Faithful to the Tradition?	11
Helpful for Today?	14
Spirit-christology	23
The End of an Era	25
Doing Christian Theology with Others	26
2. A Man of Momentous Silence	30
Vacchagotta's Questions	31
A Multitude of Opinions	34
A Strategic Silence	36
The Life of Siddhartha Gautama	38
Noble Truths	42
First Noble Truth: Dukkha	42
Second Noble Truth: Samudaya	44
The Third Noble Truth: Nirodha	47
Fourth Noble Truth: Marga	49
3. The Mind on Fire	51
Nagarjuna	53
After the Buddha	55
Madhyamika Philosophy	59
Chapter 25: Nirvana	60
The Tathagata	62
The Discourse to Vacchagotta	63
The Fetter of Views	67
4. Buddhist Emptiness and the Incomprehensible God	72
God's Incomprehensibility in Thomas Aquinas	72
The Infinitely Knowable God	77
Two Visions of the Religious Quest	80

Transformation without Transcendence	81
Via Negativa?	83
Emptiness as the Negation of Holiness	85
Emptiness and Grace	88
Jesus Christ and the Emptiness of God	91
Some Conclusions	94
 5. Toward a New Solidarity		96
Comparative Theology and Comparative Religion	97
Comparative Theology and the Theology of Religions	98
Signs of the Times	100
Dialogue as Christian "Practice"	103
Foundations of Dialogue?	106
Dialogue as Conversation	108
The Comparative Theologian	109
New Forms of Solidarity	112
 Notes		117
 Index		129