

Contents

Introduction. Toward a Humanist Justice: A Critical Introduction to the Work of Susan Moller Okin 3

Debra Satz and Rob Reich

Part I. RETHINKING POLITICAL THEORY

1. Okin's Liberal Feminism as a Radical Political Theory 15
Nancy Rosenblum
2. A Matter of Demolition? Susan Okin on Justice and Gender 41
Joshua Cohen
3. Of Linchpins and Other Interpretive Tools: Reconsidering
Okin's Method 55
Elizabeth Wingrove
4. Can Feminism Be Liberated from Governmentalism? 67
John Tomasi

Part II. GENDER AND THE FAMILY

5. Equality of Opportunity and the Family 93
David Miller

6. "No More Relevance than One's Eye Color": Justice and a Society without Gender 113
Mary Lyndon Shanley
7. On the Tension between Sex Equality and Religious Freedom 129
Cass Sunstein

Part III. FEMINISM AND CULTURAL DIVERSITY

8. What We Owe Women: The View from Multicultural Feminism 143
Ayelet Shachar
9. Okin and the Challenge of Essentialism 166
Alison M. Jaggar
10. The Dilemma of a Dutiful Daughter: Love and Freedom in the Thought of Kartini 181
Chandran Kukathas

Part IV. DEVELOPMENT AND GENDER

11. Discordant Cooperation: Reinventing Globalization to Reduce Gender Inequality 203
Robert O. Keohane
12. The Gendered Cycle of Vulnerability in the Less Developed World 223
Iris Marion Young

Contributors 239

Bibliography 241

Index 253