

Survey of Contents

Section	Page
I-2 Introduction	3
3-6 I. General Considerations	3
7-144 II. The Distinction Between Civil Law and Commercial Law	6
7-11 A. Introductory Remarks	6
12-18 B. History of the Separation of Commercial Law	7
19-94 C. The Autonomy of Commercial Law Openly Admitted	10
95-136 D. The Autonomy of Commercial Law Officially Denied	47
137-144 E. Mixed Legal Systems	66
145-199 III. Appraisal of the Distinction	71
146-166 A. The Consequences of an Autonomous Commercial Law	71
167-185 B. The Value of an Autonomous Commercial Law	81
186-199 C. The Transformation of the Distinction	87
200-284 IV. Rules and Institutions Particular to Commerce	99
201-253 A. Some Special Rules on Merchants	99
254-270 B. Professional Organisations for Merchants	128
271-284 C. The Commercial Courts	136
285 V. General Conclusion	143
List of Principal Works	144
Detailed Table of Contents	147

© 1983 J. C. B. MOHR (PAUL SIEBECK), TÜBINGEN AND MARTINUS NIJHOFF PUBLISHERS
THE HAGUE · BOSTON · LONDON

THIS CONTRIBUTION HAS BEEN FINANCIALLY SPONSORED BY THE STIFTUNG VOLKSWAGENWERK IN HANNOVER (GERMANY)