

DETAILED TABLE OF CONTENTS

|   |          |   |     |
|---|----------|---|-----|
| Preface   | xi       | Other reasons which might explain why some actions are crimes         | 70  |
| Acknowledgements  | xiii     | Do we need the criminal law?  | 73  |
| Editorial advisory panel  | xiv      | 4. What is justice?  | 81  |
| Message to students   | xv       | Introduction  | 82  |
| Meet the authors  | xvi      | Justice—preliminary issues  | 82  |
| Guide to the resources in this textbook                                     | xviii    | Definitions of justice  | 85  |
| Guide to the online resources   | xx       | Criminal justice models   | 88  |
|   |          | Philosophical ideas of justice  | 95  |
|   |          | Systems of criminal justice—adversarial and inquisitorial             | 102 |
|   |          | Drawing ideas together  | 105 |
| PART 1   |          | 5. Crime statistics  | 113 |
| JOURNEYING INTO CRIMINOLOGY  | 3 | Introduction  | 114 |
| 1. Becoming a student Tips, tricks, and tools for effective learning | 5        | Officially (police) recorded crime statistics                         | 115 |
| Introduction  | 6        | Offence categories and patterns of offending                          | 119 |
| Effective, engaged, employable: The E3 student                              | 6        | Police recorded crime statistics and the 'justice gap'                | 120 |
| Embarking on your journey at university                                     | 8        | Surveying crime: The Crime Survey for England and Wales               | 126 |
| Choosing your travel partners   | 11       | Conclusion  | 131 |
| Developing a way to travel: Remember your ABC                               | 25       | 6. How does criminology 'know' about crime?                    |     |
| 2. What is the study of criminology?                                 | 29       | Subjectivity, supposition, and study                                  | 139 |
| Introduction  | 30       | Introduction  | 140 |
| What does criminology look like as an academic subject?                     | 31       | Approaching criminological knowledge with a critical eye              | 141 |
| What is the nature of criminology?  | 33       | Subjectivity, supposition, and study: The triad of knowledge creation | 142 |
| Studying criminology  | 34       | Criminological theory as knowledge                                    | 143 |
| How will I study criminology at university?                                 | 36       | Supposition   | 148 |
| The independent learner   | 39       | Study   | 150 |
| How will your learning be assessed?   | 41       | Reflecting on research as study: What can we know?                    | 161 |
| What is the study of criminology?—revisited                                 | 50       | 7. Crime and the media   | 165 |
|   |          | Introduction  | 166 |
|   |          | Traditional media criminology   | 167 |
|   |          | Newsworthiness and setting agendas                                    | 170 |
|   |          | The representation of young people in the media                       | 175 |
|   |          | The representation of migrants in the media                           | 178 |
|   |          | Crime novels, television, and film                                    | 182 |

PART 2 EXPLORING CRIME 53

|                                    |    |
|------------------------------------|----|
| 3. What is crime?           | 55 |
| Introduction                       | 56 |
| Crime as a social construct        | 57 |
| Crime and deviance                 | 60 |
| Why are some actions criminalised? | 62 |
| The harm principle                 | 62 |

|  |     |  |     |
|--|-----|--|-----|
| Analysing crime film and the criminological imagination                  | 184 | What is a theory?  | 317 |
| Media classification and censorship                                      | 186 | Testing a theory   | 318 |
| New technology, new media, and new fears                                 | 187 | Different types of theory  | 321 |
| Cybercrime   | 189 | Criminological theory  | 322 |
| The future of media criminology  | 193 | Classical criminology  | 324 |
| 8. Victimology and hate crime Evidence and campaigning for change | 199 | Conclusion and consideration of modern neo-classical theories                  | 336 |
| Introduction   | 200 | 13. Biological and psychological positivism Determined to predetermine  | 343 |
| Non-governmental organisations and pressure groups                       | 201 | Introduction   | 344 |
| Victims of crime and the victims movement                                | 202 | Positivism, punishment, and rehabilitation                                     | 344 |
| Theoretical approaches to studying victims                               | 208 | Early positivism   | 346 |
| Hate crime   | 210 | Biological theories  | 351 |
| Disablist hate crime   | 215 | Psychological theories   | 359 |
| Homophobic hate crime  | 218 | Learning   | 364 |
| Conclusion   | 220 | 14. Sociological positivism Determined to predetermine                  | 377 |
| 9. Explaining youth crime and youth justice                       | 227 | Introduction   | 378 |
| Introduction   | 228 | Sociological theories  | 379 |
| Why do we need to view youth crime differently?                          | 228 | Key concepts in sociology  | 379 |
| Growing up—theories of childhood and youth                               | 229 | Social process/interaction theories  | 383 |
| Theories of delinquency  | 232 | Social structural theories—macro-sociological theories                         | 387 |
| Growing into crime: Culture and deviance                                 | 239 | Culture and subcultural theories   | 397 |
| Responding to young people's offending behaviour                         | 248 | 15. Critical criminology—part 1 Challenging the 'usual suspects'        | 417 |
| Progressive approaches to youth offending:                               |     | Introduction: What do you see?   | 418 |
| Diversion and positive youth justice                                     | 254 | Social construction and power  | 421 |
| Conclusions  | 257 | Labelling perspectives: 1960s radicalism and humanising the deviant            | 422 |
| 10. Race, ethnicities, and the criminal justice system            | 263 | The development of critical criminology in Britain                             | 428 |
| Introduction   | 264 | Conclusion   | 441 |
| Critical race theory   | 264 | 16. Critical criminology—part 2 New and future directions               | 445 |
| Understanding race, crime, and the criminal justice system               | 266 | Introduction   | 446 |
| Using CRT to understand crime and criminal justice in England and Wales  | 270 | A new era and a new 'ology': Enter the zemilogists                             | 450 |
| Conclusion   | 278 | The greening of critical criminology?  | 454 |
| 11. Gender and feminist criminology                               | 283 | Cultural criminology: Deviant subcultures, emotions, and the carnival of crime | 460 |
| Introduction   | 284 | Convict criminology  | 468 |
| Feminist criminology: Key theoretical traditions                         | 287 | Conclusion   | 473 |
| Gender and crime   | 299 | 17. Right and left realism  | 479 |
| Gender and criminal justice  | 303 | Introduction: The emergence of realist perspectives                            | 480 |
| Criticisms of feminist criminology                                       | 304 | Right realism: Key ideas   | 482 |
| Conclusion   | 308 | Right realism: Policy implications   | 483 |
|  |     | Evaluating right realism   | 488 |
|  |     | Left realism: Key ideas  | 489 |
|  |     | Left realism: Policy implications  | 492 |
|  |     | Evaluating left realism  | 495 |
|  |     | Conclusion   | 497 |

PART 3

EXPLAINING CRIME

313

12. Free will, classicism, and rational choice

The blame game 315

Introduction 316

|   |     |   |     |
|---|-----|---|-----|
| 18. Integrated theories of crime                           | 503 | The role of the police in crime control   | 638 |
| Introduction  | 504 | Beyond policing: The place of other agencies and interests in controlling crime | 642 |
| Integrated explanations of crime                                  | 505 | Place, property, and people: The objects and technologies of crime control      | 645 |
| Evolving integrated explanations of crime                         | 505 | What does crime control achieve?  | 647 |
| Integrated risk factor theories: Predicting, not explaining crime | 511 | What are the consequences of crime control?                                     | 651 |
| The two sides of the integrated coin                              | 520 | Does it work?   | 654 |
| 19. Searching for the causes of crime                      | 525 | The limitations of crime control  | 654 |
| Introduction  | 526 | 24. Punishment and the idea of 'just deserts'                            | 661 |
| Epistemology and the causes of crime                              | 526 | Introduction  | 662 |
| Operationalising the causes of crime                              | 529 | What is punishment?   | 662 |
| Exploring the causes of crime through scientific experiment       | 530 | What is punishment intended to achieve?   | 664 |
| The rebirth of experimental criminology in the 21st century       | 536 | The delivery of punishment  | 668 |
| Responding to crime   | 539 | Mind, body, soul: The objects of punishment                                     | 673 |
| Chaos theory  | 542 | The organisation and impact of punishment                                       | 675 |
| Conclusion: Do we really search for the causes of crime?          | 545 | What are the consequences of punishment?  | 677 |
|   |     | Does punishment 'work'?   | 677 |
|   |     | Objective or subjective considerations: Punishment, justice, and the public     | 680 |
|   |     | What is wrong with the idea of punishment?                                      | 681 |
|   |     | 25. Rehabilitation of offenders  | 685 |
|   |     | Introduction  | 686 |
|   |     | What is rehabilitation?   | 686 |
|   |     | What is rehabilitation for?   | 689 |
|   |     | How is rehabilitation organised and administered?                               | 693 |
|   |     | Mind, body, soul: The objects of rehabilitation                                 | 695 |
|   |     | Models and practices in the delivery of rehabilitative services                 | 698 |
|   |     | What are the outcomes of rehabilitation: How do we judge success?               | 701 |
|   |     | What is the impact of rehabilitation? What does it achieve?                     | 704 |
|   |     | The limitations of rehabilitation   | 707 |
|   |     | 26. Alternatives to punishment Diversion and restorative justice         | 715 |
|   |     | Introduction  | 716 |
|   |     | Alternatives to punishment and offence resolution                               | 716 |
|   |     | The purpose of alternatives to punishment and offence resolution                | 720 |
|   |     | Transformational goals  | 723 |
|   |     | Alternatives to punishment: Structure, organisation, and operation              | 725 |
|   |     | Delivering alternatives to punishment: Practices and challenges                 | 728 |
|   |     | The achievements of alternatives to punishment: Considering the evidence        | 732 |
|   |     | Alternatives to punishment: The implications                                    | 734 |
|   |     | The limitations of alternatives to punishment                                   | 737 |
| PART 4   |     |   |     |
| RESPONDING TO CRIME  | 551 |   |     |
| 20. Criminal justice principles                            | 553 |   |     |
| Introduction: The criminal justice game changers                  | 554 |   |     |
| The rule of law   | 555 |   |     |
| Adversarial justice   | 565 |   |     |
| Restorative justice   | 566 |   |     |
| The police, the courts, and the CPS                               | 568 |   |     |
| 21. Criminal justice—policy, practice, and people          | 577 |   |     |
| Introduction  | 578 |   |     |
| Criminal justice policies   | 578 |   |     |
| Criminal justice practices  | 584 |   |     |
| People in criminal justice  | 593 |   |     |
| 22. Crime prevention Ideas and practices                   | 599 |   |     |
| Introduction  | 600 |   |     |
| What is crime prevention?   | 600 |   |     |
| Alternative perspectives on crime prevention                      | 608 |   |     |
| Politics, interest groups, and crime prevention                   | 613 |   |     |
| Models of practice in crime prevention                            | 616 |   |     |
| What does prevention achieve?                                     | 619 |   |     |
| Consequences of crime prevention                                  | 621 |   |     |
| Limitations of crime prevention                                   | 624 |   |     |
| 23. Crime control, policing, and community safety          | 631 |   |     |
| What is crime control?  | 632 |   |     |
| Crime control and due process models                              | 633 |   |     |
| Objectives of crime control                                       | 635 |   |     |

|  |            |  |            |
|--|------------|--|------------|
| 27. Critical perspectives on crime and punishment | 743 | 29. Applying your skills to employability or future study | 805 |
| What are critical perspectives on punishment?            | 744        | Introduction   | 806        |
| Unjust punishment  | 746        | Climbing the levels of your higher education                     | 811        |
| Punishment and hegemony: Justifications and legitimacy   | 749        | Future concerns for criminology                                  | 817        |
| Crimes of the privileged                                 | 751        | Future concerns for criminal justice                             | 818        |
| What is to be done about crime?                          | 755        | Campaigning in criminology                                       | 820        |
| Limitations of critical perspectives on punishment       | 763        | Seeing crime differently   | 823        |
| Conclusion   | 765        | 30. Journeying into employability and careers             |            |
|  |            | From university to the workplace                                 | 833        |
|  |            | Introduction   | 834        |
|  |            | Producing your own employability                                 | 836        |
|  |            | Employers' perceptions of graduate employability skills          | 837        |
|  |            | Producing your 'RARE' employability framework                    | 840        |
|  |            | Getting a lift from work-based learning                          | 840        |
|  |            | Applying graduate employability to your career                   | 842        |
|  |            | People in criminal justice careers                               | 846        |
|  |            | Different types of career  | 859        |
|  |            | Self-employability and social enterprise                         | 862        |
|  |            | Transferring your employability to your career                   | 864        |
|  |            | Glossary   | 869        |
|  |            | Bibliography   | 879        |
|  |            | Index  | 909        |

PART 5

BECOMING A RESEARCHER OF CRIMINOLOGY

769

|  |            |
|--|------------|
| 28. Becoming a researcher and knowledge producer        | 771 |
| Introduction   | 772        |
| Why research?  | 772        |
| Where to begin?  | 775        |
| Planning your research   | 780        |
| The importance of ethical standards ('The Only Way Is Ethics') | 786        |
| Barriers for research  | 789        |
| Writing up your research                                       | 793        |
| Disseminating your findings                                    | 796        |
| Where to next?   | 799        |