

Contents

| | |
|--|------|
| List of figures | vii |
| Notes on contributors | viii |
| | |
| 1 Collecting the past: manuscript and book collecting in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries | 1 |
| TOBY BURROWS AND CYNTHIA JOHNSTON | |
| | |
| 2 Creating and keeping a national treasure: the changing uses of Hans Sloane's collection in the eighteenth century | 8 |
| ALICE MARPLES | |
| | |
| 3 Sarah Sophia Banks: a 'truly interesting collection of visiting cards and Co.' | 25 |
| ARLENE LEIS | |
| | |
| 4 'There never was such a collector since the world began': a new look at Sir Thomas Phillipps | 45 |
| TOBY BURROWS | |
| | |
| 5 American collectors and the trade in medieval illuminated manuscripts in London, 1919–1939: J. P. Morgan Junior, A. Chester Beatty and Bernard Quaritch Ltd. | 63 |
| LAURA CLEAVER AND DANIELLE MAGNUSSON | |
| | |
| 6 Sydney Cockerell: a bibliophile director-collector | 79 |
| STELLA PANAYOTOVA | |

vi Contents

| | | |
|---|--|-----|
| 7 | Spending a fortune: Robert Edward Hart, bibliophile and numismatist, an industrialist collector in Blackburn, Lancashire | 98 |
| | CYNTHIA JOHNSTON | |
| 8 | Ossified collections: the past encapsulated in British institutions today | 113 |
| | KAREN ATTAR | |
| | Index | 139 |